THE TRIBUNE.

Repudiation Abroad.

We copy from the American the following translation of a paper addressed to our Minister at the Hague by a great number of the merchants of Amsterdam. These documents are valuable as showing the settled sentiment of influential men abroad concerning the refusal of some of our States to pay their debts. The sense of national honor must be dead if these appeals to our justice and integrity awaken no worthy response: To CHRISTOPHER HUGHES, Esq., Charge d'Affaires of the United States of America at the Hague:

Sir: We, the undersigned, bondholders of North American loans, negociated of late years, or secured upon stocks saued by several States of the Union, confidently take the liberty to invoke your kind intercession in our behalf.

You are well aware that the engagements entered into on issuing these loans have not been fulfilled; that the payment of interest has been suspended; that resolutions passed by some of the States have rendered these securities almost valueles; that severe losses have been sustained; whilst every enders or to effect a remedy to this deplorable state of things has hithere proved fruitless.

has hitherto proved fruitless.

Under these circumstances, we consider ourselves justified in making a public appeal to the known sense of honor of the American people, and in bringing our complaint before the Ceneral Government of a nation, which, until now, has always felt and recognized the high importance of public felting the condi-

and credit The deep sense of our grievances has, we are happy to say, met with sympathy in the United States, where it has even met with sympathy in the United States, where it has even been publicly acknowledged. The doctrine of repudiation, although embraced in some quarters, has excited the just in-dignation of the majority of the population. Men in eleva-ted stations have openly declared that whatever the calamity of the times or the malpractices and dilapidations of the banks and public officers, or whatever the disappointments attendant on too sourning expectations, nothing can sauction attendant on too sanguine expectations, nothing can sanction such a doctrine. The inviolability of engagements, which having no tribunal to enforce them, are to be considered the more second as being along and an area of the considered the more sacred as being placed under the protection of the na-tional honor and public faith, has been warmly advocated in your country itself.

We, however, do not hesitate boldly to express our opin ion, that a mere acknowledgement of rights or obligations can never suffice to retrieve the shaken credit of the State, on to dispel our just grounds of complaint.

By such acknowledgement we may be emboldened to press our case calmly but earnestly, and feel ourselves justified in soliciting redress, but by their mere acknowledgement the American People can never be considered in the eyes of the world as having wiped away the stain which has been suffered to attach to its name.

Do not, however, suppose, sir, that we, the undersigned memorialists, shall presume to point out the resources that might be made available, or to suggest the measures that Might, perhaps, be resorted to.

We simply allow ourselves to put this question, whether, with such unbounded means at their command, with the great energy of the people, and in a case of such general and paramount interest, it can really be so wholly impracticable to retrieve the national credit from its present state of prostration? We are even bold to ask whether the state of prostation offered for the injuries we had sustained, is to consist in a mere acknowledgement of our rights, unaccompanied by the slightest effort to meet our claims or

Iranquilize our anxieties

As Hollanders, we may be allowed to cast a retrospective look upon the first period of the independence of your nation, and to call to mind that our countrymen did not remain idle spectators of the struggle, nor indifferent to the rising for-tunes of the States. Long before the credit of the youthful State was founded upon what might be considered a solid basis, their capital was made subservient to the development and support of its prosperity. Between the years 1782 and 1794, more than thirty millions of money were obtained here and loaned to the States, in addition to which, further considerable advances, for the same object, were made to you countrymen. Shall then the assistance formerly proffered be counted nothing? and shall it be said that the good faith observed in the fulfilment of former engagements, on the strength of which the loans in after times were so readily granted, was a mere delusion? and finally, can the American nation have forgotten the assistance to which their rise and existence are materially owing? Will they not endeavor, by all possible means, to avoid the appearance that the services rendered could be met with ingratitude?

rendered could be met with ingratitude?

In conclusion, we would observe, sir, that very few years have elapsed since the last loans were contracted—the National honor was still untarnished—confidence in the United States was unshaken—a decided preference was shown for investments secured by the resources and public honor of the contract of the con your people—and their stock offered, as it was thought, the best security. Not a doubt was admitted of the continued best security. Not a doubt was admitted of the continued course of their prosperity—the object of the loans contracted was to promote that prosperity—and accordingly capitals already profitably invested in other quarters were transferred into these new loans, but within a brief space the plighted promises were broken, the value of the securities pledged for the loans dwindled away into nothing, and even the dividends remained unpaid. We ask now, sir, have not the State Creditors, who are sufferers by these loans, a more particular Claim upon sympathy and support?

These feelings and these hopes sir, we most earnestly entreat, you will be pleased to communicate to the General Government of the Union and to that of the several States. We join our voices to those of the numerous sufferers in an adjacent country, who have also addressed the representa-an adjacent country, who have also addressed the representative of the Union; seliciting his good offices in the transmission of their representations and the furtherance of their wishes. These good offices have not been withheld, and we, the undersigned, feel firmly persuaded that from you, sir, our application will likewise meet with a ready acquiescence.

Enabled as you are, sir, by your station to judge of the impression produced in this country by the events alluded to, and to appreciate the disastrous consequences they have entailed upon so many of our countrymen, we cannot but hope and believe that you will not refuse the weight of your influence, on which we place the utmost reliance, in every proper ence, on which we place the utmost reliance, in every proper quarter and whenever it can be available, in promoting our

We are, sir, your most obed't humble servant, Signed by 165 Individuals and Firms.

BITES—A clear Complexion, free from Emption or Disfigurement may be had by all, by using a remedy now well known to be one of the most surprising inventions of the age. It is made in the shape of a beautiful soan called the Italian Chemical Soap, as it entirely eradicates every eruption, such as piniples, freekles, blotches, seury, salt rheum, an morphew, sunburn, or disfagurement of the skin, imparting to the sace, body, neck or arms a beautiful healthy clearness. No misrepresentation is offered. One trait will suffice to recommend it to all. It changes the color of dark, anaburnt or yellow skin, to a fine healthy clearness. It has received the approval of the Medical Council of Paris, who call it a "miracle, a wonder and a blessing." Have seen this cure several cases of eruption that persons have spent hundreds of dollars on to cure in vain. It is sold at 30 cents a cake by T. BRANT'S INDIAN PULMONARY BALSAM, PURIFYING EXTRACT,

PURIFYING EXTRACT,
For the cure of Pulmonary Consumption, Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Soreness of the Chest and Lungs, Ulceraid Sare Throat and Mouth, Whooping Cough, and all disorders which are caused by an impure state or unequalized circulation of the Blood, such as Serofsla. Rheumatism, Biles, Piles, Liver Complaint, Mercurial Diseases, Scald
Head, Ferer and Ague, 3c.
THE 'INDIAN PULMONARY BALSAM' is Compounded and prepared according to an original recipe given to the proprietor's father many years since by Capt, JOSEPH BRANT, the celebrated Indian Chief and King of the Six Nations. He recommended this medicual compound to be such as the Indian Medicus Mex used to prevent and cure Coughs, Colds and Consumption, and also to cleanse and purify the blood.
The recipe has lain amongst many other old papers hearly half a century without attracting attention, until the last year, half a century without attracting attention, until the last year, refly the blood.

The recipe has lain amongst many other old papers nearly half a century without attracting attention, until the last year, when accidental circumstances brought it to the proprietor's notice; since which it has been tried, and its hearing and purifying qualities tested, in such a variety and multiplicity of cases of Cough, Cold and Consumption, and as an afterative and purifier of the blood, and croves to be such an infallible specific for all diseases of the breast and lungs, and such a certain modifier of the secretions from an unhealthy to a healthy state, as to induce the proprietor to offer it to the public as a valuable remedy in all Chronic Complaints, originating in a derangement of the secretions, and in an impure and morbid condition of the blood and other fluids.

This Indian prescription is a compound extract of various kinds of herbs, roots, barks, plants and flowers—oossessing the most active Medicinal qualities in the vegetable kingdom. They are of a purifying, balsamic, anodyne having me ture, which, when combined, open all obstructions of the breast, promote expectoration, strengthen and invigorate the debilitated constitution—and these changes it accomplishes by entering into the medium of the circulation, and assisting the innate elastic powers of nature to overcome the diseased or morbid state, and assume a healthy action.

The "Pulmonary Balsam" being a certain purifyer of the blood, as well as a specific for pulmonary, complaints, and as it possesses expectorant qualities which are not essentially necessary when it is taken as an afterative and purifyer for complaints that are not pulmonary, the proprietor has therefore, prepared the medication leaving out the expectorating ingredients, which, in order to distinguish it from the Balsam, he calls.

"BRANT'S INDIAN PURIFYING EXTRACT."

ne calls.

"BRANT'S INDIAN PURIFYING EXTRACT."

This preparation possesses all the alterative and purifying qualities that the Balsam does, and will perhaps be preferred by many persons, for all complaints excepting coughs, colds, and pulmonary affections.

Although it is but a short time since this Indian Medicine was first tested and tried, yet it has already done much good, and promises to do much more, which the following letters and statements will intly substantiate.

The proprietor would here remark, that the statements that follow, will be perceived to to have been endorsed or certified to by persons in public offices, because of the respectability of the persons making the statements; all of whom have places of residence, and would take pleasure in answering any endurines that may be made of them on the subject.

The first testimony to the healing virtues of the Balsam is extracts from letters received from Gen. John Dunning of Balston Spa, Saratoga Co. N. Y. General Dunning is well known to the public, having been in public offices many years;

Ballston Spa, Cot. 31, 1832.

Dean Sin—I take pleasure in saying to you that my health is much better now than it was when you sent me the bottle of "Brant's Indian Pulmonary Balsam." The first time I took it, it nausseated me somewhat for a short time, but I went to bed and slept well during the whole night without coughing. I now keep it on the stand by my bedside, and if during the night I begin to cough, I take a little, and the cough soon stops.

Yours truly, JOHN BUNNING.

Inow keep it on the stand by my bedside, and if during the night I begin to cough, I take a little, and the cough scon stops.

Gen. Dunning wrote again:

Ballston Spa, Dic. 15th, 1812.

Dear Sir—The bottle of "Brant's Indian P dimonary Balsam" you sent me October last, proved so be achiefal to my cough and other bodily complaints, that I was induced to write to you for more of it, which I received about the 26th November, and which I have been using since, and the continued improvement which my health derives from its use induces me to write for more, and at the same time I will give you a history of my complaint.

For three winters past I have been confined closely to my room with a very bad cough, and under the Doctor's careand on the first of November, 1811, I was attacked more severely than usual with cough and fever, which continued until the first of May, 1812, before my complaint abated so as to allow me to leave my room—I was under the necessity, for the most part of the time, to take cathartic medicines in order to have anything pass my bowels, and after the severity of the attack began to abate, I had no appetite for food, and what I did take did not digest well. I expected to have been attacked again, as usual, this fall, as soon as cool weather commenced, and was preparing to be again confined to my room, when I received the first bottle of the "Balsam," which I am confident, and do verily believe, has prevented me from having the expected attack this past fail. It keeps my bowels in good leasthy order—zives me a good appetite and stomach for my food—evables me to sleep well, and prevents me from having those nervous, disagreeable sensations that I used to have, and which has heretofore kept me awake muny a long and tedious uight—and I say to you, that I would not be without it on any account whatever. I am now able to take change of and attend to my business, out and in doors without much more regard to the weather than if it were the summer season.

JOHN DUNNING Yours truly, Many other persons have used the "Pulmonary Balson" for chronic cours and pulmonary affections, who have been cured, and to whom we have liberty to refer such persons as Dear Sin: I heard of Brant's Indian "Purifying Extract" for parifying the blood, and my son being troubled with sores all over his limbs and body, I was induced from the high recommendation it had, to obtain it and give it to him, and it has cured him. He is ten years old, and was attacked about six years since with an eruption which became running sores all over him. The sores decharged much matter, and seemed to be incurable, as he has had much medical advice and after dance in this city and elsewhere, and was not cured; and the disease was of so long standing I was fearful he never would be cured; but he is now, by the use of "Brant's Purifying Extract," well. The sores and alcers are all healed up, and his health is good. Yours, Sec., MILO HEAT'H.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 15, 1842.

DEAR SIR: Agreeable to your request, I hand you the following statements of facts in relation to my disorder and present health.

About four years ago I was very severely attacked with ERKINITELAS in both my legs; they were inflamed from just below the knees to the test; they swelled to a prodigious 124.

sent health.

About four years ago I was very severely attacked with ERRSPEAS in both my legs; they were inflamed from just below the knees to the teet; they swelled to a predigious size, and for nearly 2 year were raw like a piece of fresh mest. They continued, after the inflammation was somewhat subdued and the rawness abated, to be intensely bot, and were of dark red or purpleish color; large ulcers would come into them, which would break every few days and discharge a watery humor, sometimes in quantity from half a pint to a pint a day, and leave holes in the legs, where some of the ulcers were large enough apparently to put a finger in. I have been obliged to keep them bandaged, in order to keep them from swelling, for about two years. I have employed several skilful physicians, who have prescribed for me, and all of them, after prescribing for me without beneficial effects, have told me that nothing would ever help me. I applied to a French Doctor who advertised to cure all diseases of the skin; he examined one of my legs, and shook his head, saying, "My dear sir, I can do nothing to help you; those legs will run you off some of these days." Thus I was situated when I began to take 'Braxay' INDIAN FURLYING EXTRACT.' When I commenced taking the Purifying Extract, I had but little hope that it would be of any benefit, as I had employed so many differentphysicians and taken so many remedies without beneficial results; but I had not taken the Purifying Extract, only a few days when I found that the smarting, stringing and bruning sensation, which had always annoyed me, began to subside, and, after a few days more, those sensations were no longer felt. The inflammation became less and less daily; so much so, that now I am enabled to take off the bandages which I have been obliged to wear for about two years past. The ulcers have all healed up, and have not burst open or discharged any since I first began to take the Purifying Extract. I have also been afflicted with rheumatism for about thirty years, and it ha
